Chapter 7A of the California Building Code—Materials and Construction Methods for Exterior Wildfire Exposure was approved by the Building Standards Commission and became effective January 2008. This new chapter of the code applies to new construction in Wildland Urban Interface (WUI) areas. It establishes minimum standards for the protection of life and property by increasing the ability of a building to resist intrusion of flame and burning embers.

What does this mean for you?

Find out at this workshop designed for building officials, fire officials, planners, building materials manufacturers, developers, architects, structural engineers and other building professionals.
